

WHAT A PARTY!

By: Tanae

Once in the summer on August 19, it was my party. My mom and I were going to pick up my two cakes. I was very upset because it was cloudy. “Mom, how would my party ever work if it’s pouring outside, and who would ever go swimming?” I whined.

“It will be fine,” she replied. I groaned.

When we got to the store I was still upset, but when I saw my two cakes, I turned my frown upside down. “I was wrong!! This will be the best party ever!” I shouted so the whole store could hear me.

Soon we got home and I couldn’t stop smiling. In a while I heard a voice. “Someone’s here!” It was my brother. My eyes were too wide open to see who was there. I softly said that I was not excited so he wouldn’t see me get crazy, but suddenly I screamed and darted to the door to see who it was.

“Who is it?! Who is it?!” I shouted to get an answer, but I didn’t see anyone, so I went to my family room and just sat sadly. “I knew I should have picked yesterday,” I moaned.

In a while, I heard a very familiar voice. It was Tyler!! I ran to search for him. I found him in my brother’s room talking to him. “But he’s a boy! It doesn’t matter. He’s still my friend, but I want one of my girlfriends,” so I walked to the living room and I saw Kiara and Samantha. “Come on! Let’s go throw water balloons at my other brother Jarome!” I yelled.

“Yeah!” they answered.

More and more family members came, and friends too, and I still had a smile. “Happy Birthday Tanae!!” they yelled. “Thank you,” I whispered.